What the Wine Extravaganza means to PV Habitat

As many of you know it is time for the Jerry Mead's New World International Wine Competition Award Showcase and Auction, and Pomona Valley Habitat is greatly appreciative to be the beneficiary once again. The proceeds from this Wine Extravaganza helps raise funds to build quality, affordable homes in partnership with deserving families and to raise awareness of the desperate housing needs in our communities.

Jerry Mead's New World International secures all of the wine donations for the event by inviting the award winning wineries from their annual competition as a way for the wineries to have their wines sampled by the public. It is also a venue for the competition to hand out their top wine awards for those wineries/wine makers who are able to attend.

This event is volunteer driven and our volunteers are well trained. We reach out to them throughout the year to help with other events as well. As the Volunteer and Special Events coordinator, my goal is to have a relationship with our volunteers that ensures that their overall experience will mean the difference between our volunteers continuing to support our cause or moving on. I want their experience to be one that makes them want to come back.

Each year we get new donors that want to support our mission through this event. We also have a larger database of repeat donors. We try and make sure they are given the best experience as they support our organization with letters of appreciation and follow ups through the year. We have also created a questionnaire to find out what we can do to improve to keep their donations coming in.

I became involved six years ago, as a Volunteer and fell in love with the mission. I have been fortunate to have worked with wonderful people. We lead projects that invest in and improve our communities by providing services to low income families by partnering with small businesses, individuals, faith groups, corporations and cities.
